

Offensive Zone Face Off

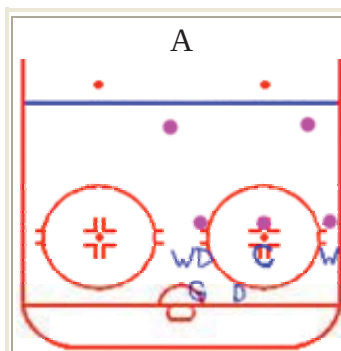

These are the two face off positions our team will use.

L = left wing, R = right wing.

The centre will pull the puck back to the winger lined up behind him, and that winger will SHOOT the puck on net.

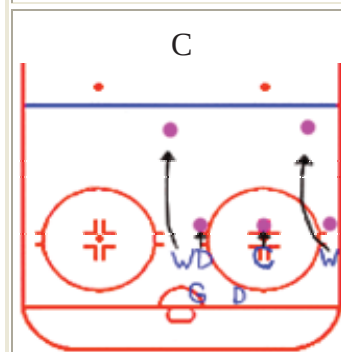

The other winger will get to the net for the rebound (if there is one).

Defensive Zone Face Off

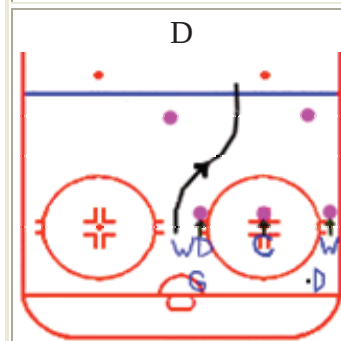

Prior to dropping the puck (fig. A):

- In the centre of the ice, our LD is lined up along the face off circle and will cover their right winger.
- In the centre of the ice, our LW is lined up so he can skate unimpeded towards their defenseman
- Our RD is lined up along the circle to the right of the goalie such that he does not screen the goalie (i.e. does not block her view) when the puck is dropped.
- Our RW is lined up along the boards opposite their winger.

After the puck is dropped (fig. C):

- Our LD covers their winger in front of the net.
- Our C covers their centre.
- Option 1 - They have the puck (fig. C):
 - If we do not gain control of the puck, our RD will cover their left winger as he comes closer to the net.
 - Each of our wingers skates to cover the opposing defenseman

• Option 2 - We have the puck (fig. D):

- If we gain control of the puck in the grey area (shown in fig. B), it is the RD job to go get it. At the same time the LD, C and RW covers the opposing players so that our RD has a chance to either pass the puck to our LW, or, can skate behind our net with the puck and assess his options from there.
- If our RD skates behind the net (fig. E) our LD should be skating towards one of the corners (as an outlet pass for the RD), our C should be skating up and across the ice to the far boards, our RW should be skating up along the boards and our LW will continue skating up the ice and cross the blue line.

Execute the BREAKOUT PLAY after gaining control of the puck.
